DMdB's founder and director, Douglas Manvell, has just returned from Forum Acusticum 2023 where 1200 acousticians met in Turin, Italy for 5 intensive and busy days. There were over 1000 papers covering all aspects of acoustics and 25 exhibitors to choose from. The conference's 5 days were packed with opportunities to learn, discuss and network with the leading practitioners and researchers, also from other parts of the world. DMdB's participation at Forum Acusticum supplemented attendance at Internoise to expand its contact with the acoustic community further strengthening and developing its network and knowledge.

As Douglas says, "My paper on the revision of the ISO 1996-2 standard on the assessment of environmental noise provided much-needed awareness of this work that is just starting. And, not only did I maintain my existing network, I made some great new contacts and listened to some extremely interesting papers."

Forum Acusticum is a European Acoustics Association event. The next Forum will be held in Malaga, Spain in June 2025.
